ART IN THE SCHOOLS.

What May Be Seen at the Annual Exhibit of High School No. 1.

The annual art exhibit of High School No. 1 will be held Wednesday afternoon and evening and Thursday until 6 o'clock p. m., June 13 and 14. Upon the second floor will be seen in the hall and art rooms the drawings from the free-hand classes in charcoal, water-color and pen and ink. The manual training classes will show upon the wails and frames the sequence of their mechanical drawing work during the year. Upon the tables will be seen the elementary carpentry and joinery, wood turning and elementary and advanced pattern making, this work having been made by the stuthe shops. The biological department will have upon tables drawing books, theses, etc., which will give a good index of the year's work, both in kind and in In the 9A physical laboratory a series of experiments selected from the half year's work will be arranged to illustrate the progressive steps of the course. Beginning with the simple measurements, the work includes hydrostatics, pneumatics, mechanics and heat. The second half year, known as 10B physics, which includes elec-tricity, light and sound, will not be represented in the exhibit. The chemical labor-atory will have the first twelve desks occupied by pupils performing characteristic experiments in the required course; the reining eight desks will represent research work in qualitative analysis, each pupil being provided with solutions whose mineral and acid contents they are to determine, The pupils of the ward schools will display a series of drawings, made from their nature studies, object drawing and clay

In the basement of the building will be pupils working in the shops of the manual training department during Wednesday afternoon and evening, thus enabling the people to see the school shops in actual condition where teaching is progressing.

The department of biology will be open to visitors on Wednesday afternoon only o visitors on Wednesday afternoon only Laboratory work will be going on in bot-any, including the analysis of plants and the study of plant tissue by the aid of the compound microscope. Work in zoology will also be done. The whole work will be a representation of what is actually done when the schools are in session.

High School Commencement Week. The exercises for the week for the High occupy five days. To-morrow the commencement exercises will be held at Tomlinson Hall, when the June be held at Tomlinson Hall, when the June class of 1894 will be graduated. Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Hufford will give a reception at their home on Park avenue. Wednesday afternoon and Thursday afternoon and evening there will be an exhibit of the art and other departments of the High School at No. 1. Friday evening the meeting of the alumni will be held in High School Hall, and all graduates and pupils before 1876 are eligible to membership.

JOHN FRENZEL BEATEN

THE "BOSS" OF THE SCHOOL BOARD FALLS DOWN.

Frank Blackledge Elected by Votes-Scott, Vonnegut, Hendrickson, Appel the Other Winners.

Frenzel is defeated. That much, at least, was accomplished by the school elections yesterday afternoon. The interest manifested throughout the city was much greater than has ever before been known in a school election. In every district a very large vote was polled and the fights were generally bitter. The man who defeated Frenzel is Frank Blackledge, an attorney and a member of the firm of Thornton & Blackledge. For several weeks past Frenzel has been grooming his forces with a view to remaining the boss of the School Board and it was generally believed that he would be successful, but again it was the unexpected that happened, and his opponent carried the day by ninety-three votes. The polling place was at School No. 1, at the corner of Vermont and New Jersey street. Both men and their friends worked industriously for victory and the result was in doubt when the polls closed. The friends of each of the candidates claimed victory and early in the evening there were conflicting reports as to which had been successful. When the vote was canvassed, however, it was found that heelers that Boss Frenzel could gather together. Randal Abrams, ex-Superintendent Colbert, "Goose" Eden and a bevy of their fellow heelers were at the polls during almost the entire day and brought into play all of the tactics that were formerly employed under the old system of elections. Eden and several "toughs" attempted to kick up a row just as the polls were closing, and succeeded in still further bringing their candidate into disfavor. Their combined efforts, however, were not sufficlent to overcome the strong anti-Frenzel In the Second district the contest was between William Scott and F. E. Helwig. The latter labored under the odium that he would be subject to the influence of Frenzel in case both should be elected. Mr. Scott is the present incumbent and had the advantage of a clean record on the board. The choice to be made was between a man who had shown himself a valuable school commissioner and one who had been untried and was said to be subject to the influence of the present dictator of the board. Scott received 316 votes and Helwig 150.

Frenzel had received 522 votes and Black-

Yesterday was the first day that Indian-in school districts Ten and Eleven, where there were women in the race for school commissioner. The candidacy of the women, if it did nothing else, served to create an interest in the election in these districts that has never before been witnessed. The women were active in their work, and it was apparent that they were not in the race for the fun of the thing, or walting for their friends to elect them and then accept the place when tendered upon a gold-lined platter. They both deemed the place worthy of the efforts it took to secure them. Mrs. McKay was contesting with John B. Conner, the present incumbent, and H. C. Hendrickson for the honor of serving the Tenth district for the ensuing three years. Early yesterday morning long placards, that are so familiar upon election days, were tacked in conspicuous places about school No 10, at the corner of Home avenue and Ash street, where the polls in this district were located. On the placards, in large letters, were the words, "Vote for Mrs. McKay." The friends of Mrs. McKay had provided several vehicles which were kept busy all day hauling voters to the polls and each vehicle was labeled with one of these placards. Mrs. McKay's supporters were not all women. Quite a number of men residing in the district turned out and worked industriously for her success. W. A. Bell, C. W. Fairbanks, J. M. Leathers and others were at the polls during nearly the entire day in her interests. Then there were a score or more of women who spent a portion of the day working for the triumph of their candidate. They worked in relays of two hours each, and worked industriously. They showed themselves to be first-class amateurs in the way of political hustling, and did it in a much more agreeable way than the men have been accustomed to follow. The workers were not confined to the elderly matrons, their aid, and probably accomplished more With it all, however, they none of them forgot that they were women, and their work was carried on with a modesty and gentleness that was unusual about voting places. Among the women who worked for the success of Mrs. McKay were: Mrs. H. T. Conde, Mrs. Townsend, Mrs. Hadley and Early in the day it became apparent that the race was between Mrs. McKay and Mr. Hendrickson. This was due to the fact that both of these were working for success with a score of friends to aid them. The Conner forces were not active, and seemed to be proceeding on the line of Mr. Conner's statement that he dld not care to make a fight for the place. The total vote cast in the district was 1,927, against about 400 three years ago. Of these votes J. B. Conner received 347, Mrs. McKay 574 and H. C. Hendrickson 1,006. Although defeated, the friends of Mrs. McKay felicitated themselves upon the fact that the vote polled for their candidate was in excess of the entire vote polled three years ago. They say the active canvas was begun by them only three days ago, and they are well pleased with the result of their The Eleventh district was the other in which a woman was in the field. The candidates in this district were Mrs. Jenckes, D. F. Appel and George Bauer. The polls were at school No. 11, at the corner of Fourth street and Capitol avenue, and the scene presented here was very similar to that at school No. 10. The women had posted placards in every available space and placarded their vehicles. Mrs. Jenckes and Mrs. May Wright Sewall were prominent figures about the polls, and they were ably assisted by some half dozen or more other ladies residing in the district. In this, as well as in the Tenth district, the not confined solely to their own sex, but a number of men were exerting their in-fluence and making good use of their polit-ical acumen in advising and directing the efforts. In this district the candidacy of Mrs. Jenckes, who was supported by the local council of women, had made the election one of great interest, and an ex-ceedingly large vote was polled. It was apparent that the choice lay between the two men, however, as the Jenckes forces did not seem to be accomplishing much. Had the women been allowed to vote, however, there is no doubt but that their candidates would have been elected in both district. The result in the Eleventh district. trict was as follows: Mrs. Jenckes, 316;

Bauer, 492, and Appell, 853.

In the Ninth district there was also an unusual interest displayed in the election and a very large vote polled. The race was between Frank Vonnegut and Emil canvass for the place, as was evidenced by the vote they succeeded in getting out. The result was the election of Mr. Vonnegut, who received 753 votes, against 133 for Mr. Rassmann. Board of Children's Guardians.

ITS ANNUAL MEETING

LAST EVENING.

Secretary Smith's Report Shows the Solid Condition of Indianapolis Business-Interesting Figures.

The Board of Trade convened in annual ession last night, the principal event of the meeting being the reading of the secretary's report of the last year's business. President James A. Wildman called William L. Elder to the chair and the latter presided over the meeting. The auditing committee reported an examination of the secretary's books, which they found thoroughly accurate form, Secretary Smith's report covered in detail the board's financial condition and reviewed the several actions of the board of governors during the last year. The report showed a careful research of statistics in the various lines of trade and spoke hopefully of the future condition of the city's commercial interests. The finances of the board were reported as follows:

proudly to the steady advancement-notwithstanding the storm of panic that has generally prevailed throughout the country -of the city of Indianapolis. He showed that while business in all branches had not still there has been an advancement in various branches of the city industries. The careful study of the year's record is indeed startling and a surprise to the great ma-jority who have been inclined to the belief that the year past was one of unmitigated evil and disaster. On the contrary, the people of Indianapolis have proved their stability in times of trial, and the city today is further advanced than ever before. In manufacturing there was during the an increase in the total product amounting to over a third of a million of dollars over wholesale trade in the city increased their sales $1,500,000 over the preceding year During the year there was spent in public improvements for the benefit of the city $2,000,000, while it is estimated that $2,250,000 was invested in private building. The record of the street-railway interests showed that eighty miles of car lines were changed from animal power to electricity. One mil-lion visitors attended meetings in the city luring the year, demonstrating the fact that Indianapolis has grown to be one of the principal convention centers in city has advanced until it is estimated that the present total valuation exceeds that of the previous year by about $500,000. In population the per cent. of increase has been larger in Indianapolis than in any other in the country. It has now a po tion of 150,000 souls, showing that since the organization of the Board of Trade twelve years ago the population has about doubled. Organized labor in Indianapolis is in better condition than at any other point, and reports show fewer strikes in the city than ever before. In the pork packing industry the city ranks first in the country, and shows an advance of 60 per cent., while our banks are thoroughly prepared for an emergency, and are now in sounder condi-tion than ever before in its history. Of the egitimate failures the assets are shown to exceed the liabilities $46,$58. The railroads centering in Indianapolis are reported by the local officials to have enjoyed the largest freight business in many years, and the passenger traffic was the largest ever known. The city has refunded its bonded indebtedness on which it was heretofore paying 7.3 per cent. interest by issuing 4per-cent. bonds, thereby saving in interest a total of $33,315.50. The city controller has asked the Board of Trade to aid him in Twelve miles of new water mains have been laid during the year, thus greatly in-creasing the facilities of the fire department. The water company has now 115 miles of mains, with a daily capacity of 37,-600,000 gallons, and 1.025 fire hydrants. The total number of gallons pumped last year was 2,873,334,641; average daily pumpage for the year, 7,872,149 gallons. Indianapolis is shown by the reports of the Board of Health to be the healthiest city in the United States, compared with the relative population. It is shown by statistics of life insurance companies that no city in the country of even one-third less population has had such a small death loss. The two high schools of Indianapolis show an enrollment of 1,400, 150 constituting the graduating classes of 1893-94. The course of study in these two high schools is so extended that graduates are admitted to the junior class of Indiana University. The new Manual Training School to cost $150,000 is now in process of erection and, when complete, will be a rare opportunity for the mechanic to improve himself as well as a fitting school for higher technical institutions. The number of school children enrolled in 1890 was increased so that now here are 25,000 in attendance. The school evy is but 24 cents on the $100, the lowest n any city in the State, and much lower than any other city elsewhere. Last year the Board of School Commissioners ex-pended $474,530.88, of which $240,092.27 was for teachers' salaries. The business of the Indianapolis postoffice of the year ending March 31, 1894, is shown as follows: Total postal receipts, $317,396.96; total debits in money orders, $1,631,128.49; total number of registered articles handled, 324,324; total number of pouches and sacks sent out, 149,631; total number of carriers employed, 65; total special delivery, 31,826. The area of the city of Indianapolis covered by free delivery is twenty-five square ered by free delivery is twenty-five square miles. During the year there were 1,924 building permits issued, embracing a valuation of property in the sum of $2,062,-500.22. The statement of real estate trans-fers for the year 1893 shows that $9,761,180.71

THE I., L. & C. RIGHT OF WAY

Reasons for the Unfavorable Action on the Matter of the Proposed New Railroad.

The board of directors of the Commercial Club held a special session yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. At the meeting last THE BOARD OF TRADE HAD ONE Tuesday afternoon a resolution was adopted authorizing the appointment of what was to be known as "the Commercial Club elevated railroad commission," which shall continue permanently or until the accomplishment of the object for which it was appointed. The resolution provided that Colonel Lilly be chairman of the committee, for the reason that this project is one of the many that he has contended for since the organization of the club. At yesterday's meeting President Lilly announced his selections as follows, and they were approved by the board: Alexander C. Ayres, Herman Bamberger, Thomas C. Day, W. Conduitt, D. P. Erwin, William Fortune, C. C. Foster, Louis H. Gibson, A. P. Hendrickson, J. W. Hervey, John H. Holliday, W. J. Holliday, Albert Lieber, Charles McGuire, A. L. Mason, Frank A. Maus, Alfred M. Ogle, John R. Pearson. Julius Pratt and I. N. Richie.

A communication was received at the last meeting from the projectors of the proposed Indianapolis, Logansport & Chicago railroad, asking the club's indorsement. The communication was referred to the committee on city interests, with instructions to be ready to report at the next meeting. | profusion. The following report was received from the

"The communication of the Indianapolis, Logansport & Chicago Railway Company asking the co-operation of the Commercial Club in securing a right of way into In-dianapolis, which was referred by the directors to the committee on city interests. has received consideration. The conclusion of the committee is that the petition of the company now pending before the Board of Public Works should not be granted and that the Commercial Club, instead of cooperating, as requested, in the effort of the company to secure this grant, should earnestly protest against it.

"The petition was before the former Board of Public Works, and we believe that public interests and public rights would suffer seriously if the petition should

"A right of way into the city of Indian-apolis is to any company a valuable franpaid for. Rights of way constitute a very large part of the value of railroad lines. In many instances this value exceeds the investment of capital. In this instance the city is asked to give without compensation a franchise which we believe to be worth to any company that secures it a very large sum of money, possibly $1,000,000.

"The construction of the proposed line inside the city we believe to be unnecessary. The facilities now available for railroads entering Indianapolis are quite sufficient, and should be utilized instead of further encumbering the city with independent lines incroaching upon public rights.
"The proposed line would cross many streets in an inhabited section of the city, considerable distance within the corporate boundaries, and where there's now an encouraging prospect for further rapid development as a location for small homes. It would pass through a territory traversed by many school children. It would add to the dangers and inconveniences from which the public already suffers; it would tend to hinder the expansion of the city west of the proposed line; it would cause depreciation in the value of adjacent property with-out bringing to the city any advantages worthy of consideration which it does not already possess—all this at the expense of the public for the sake of giving without compensation a right of way worth a very large sum of money to the company re-ceiving it. It may be argued that the pro-posed line would afford the city traffic advantages, but we do not think that the city would gain more than the railroad would from its coming to this point. We have no desire to discourage the project, but we speak for what we believe to be the interests of the public in protesting against granting to the company rights which are unnecessary, though immensely valuable if granted, and we believe that it should avail ftself of the existing terminal facilities, rather than seek for its own advantage such an unwarranted encroachment on pub-"We believe that no additional surface tracks should be permitted to be built inside the city, and that efforts should be directed towards combining the necessary traffic on as few tracks as are capable of accommodating it with the least possible inconvenience to the public. The interests of the city require strict adherence to this policy and due attention to it will help the contemplated effort to bring about the construction of a system of elevated tracks on which traffic inside the city can be combined, which we regard as an undertaking of the greatest importance to Indianapolis. sons set forth, that the directors decline to authorize co-operation on the part of the club in the effort of the Indianapolis, Logansport & Chicago Railway Company to secure a right-of-way into the city as pro-posed, and that the Board of Public Works be requested not to grant the petition of the

A copy of the report will be placed before the Board of Public Works and a special committee will wait on the board in person to lay the report before it.

Just before the board adjourned, President Lilly called Vice President Foster to the chair and said it seemed to him that the action of Governor Matthews in calling out the State militia to suppress lawlessness and prevent more serious trouble, deserved an expression of commendation. He moved that a resolution be prepared as an expression of the board, and that it be forwarded to the Governor. The motion was seconded and Nathan Morris then offered the following resolution, which was adopted: "Resolved. That the board of directors of the Commercial Club commend the prompt and efficient action of Governor Matthews in endeavoring to suppress lawlessness growing out of the recent strikes of miners in Indiana."

Emmett and His Fees. Sheriff Emmett yesterday drew his warrant for the expenses of his office for the quarter ending this month. The fees received during the quarter amounted to $3 .-156.92. Under the fee and salary law he would be entitled to $3,250, provided the fees received amounted to that sum. The fees of the office for the year and a half he has now held it have fallen $6,229.13 below the limit allowed by the fee and salary law.
